ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE
AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER.
(FOR THE COUNTRY)
Is published regularly on MONDAYS, WEDNESDAYS and FRIDAYS, at SIX DOLLARS PER ANNUM—payable in advance.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING:
One square, of eight lines, one dollar, for the first insertion and twenty-five cents for each subsequent one. Liberal terms made for yearly advertisements. All communications must be accompanied by the names of the authors, and rejected communications cannot be returned.

ITEMIZING.—Who that regularly reads the newspapers has not been struck with those many named columns into which the news of the world is compressed? Various styled in various newspapers, they aim to grasp and focalize the news of everything and everybody, everywhere, and to present it in as small and telling a space as possible. They carry the reader in a breath from India to the Pole, and hurry him along from sentence to sentence, to conduct him in a trice to antipodes of thought. The reader never thinks, as his eyes take their rapid journey down the columns, of the care, the pains, the taste, the skill, the patience necessary to reduce those items to attractive shape.

The scissors and the paste do a good deal of the work, it is true, but the brain helps more than it is given credit for. Fancy and imagination and judgment have to play their part. The scissors cut instinctively at a "good" item, and the brains step in and decide whether its publication would be judicious. Is the item old? Has it ever appeared before? Is it nice and fresh and crisp and sparkling?—What position shall it hold with regard to the other items? Has another one on the same subject been already clipped out? Might not the phraseology be changed, so as to bestow point and pith? Could a piquant joke be tagged on? Again, what the selection is done, and the items—again, miscellaneous, religious, theatrical and what not—are all arranged in order, while they make a glittering and symmetric whole, over which the eye will delight to rove, like a bird from flower to flower.

All these things have to be considered in attending to the "item" department of a newspaper. The tastes of every possible reader must be anticipated. Since it takes all sorts of people to make a world—a truism of profound meaning than is generally appreciated—it takes all sorts of items to make a newspaper.

CESAR AT THE DINNER TABLE.—Association with the mighty confers dignity on trifles. When, therefore, we ridicule contemporary gossip about the peculiarities of distinguished characters, we are ridiculing by anticipation matters that are long to be invaluable for biography. What an amount of interest there is in that short letter of Cicero's, in which he describes how Caesar dined with him; how "he ate and drank without reserve; sumptuously, indeed, and with due preparation; and not only that, but with good conversation, well digested and seasoned, and if you ask, cheerfully," how the guest was not one to whom you would say, "Pray come to me in the same manner when you return; how "once was enough" how "there was nothing of importance in the conversation, but a great deal of liberal learning;" how, in short, "he was highly pleased and enjoyed himself." Thus we find that the man who kept "the world in awe" ate and drank, and talked as any other cultivated gentleman would; and the community of nature between him and us, which the majesty of his genius seemed to destroy, the dinner table thoroughly restored. Nor is the interest lessened by the recollection that even then the dagger was nearly ready for Caesar's imperial heart.—From "Human Life."

A LEG LOST FOR LOVE.—A French paper gives the following account of a branch of the "leg business," which seems to have escaped Miss Olive Logan's attention. An English lord fell madly in love with a young lady who had lost a leg by amputation. He fell on his knees and laid at her feet—or rather at her foot—his titles and his fortune. She declined. "Why, oh why?" asked the enamored peer. "Because such a marriage would be unequal, and unequal marriages are always unhappy. His wealth and station were as naught compared with her love. 'Still we are unequal,' calmly said the maiden. "How, dearest, how?" "Our standing is not the same." "To which the enamored peer said, "nonsense." The maiden persisted, and proved her correctness by the fact that he had rushed away—not to suicide, but to amputation. He returned, hobbling, but a happy man. For the maiden accepted him, and they will limp through life, cripples, but companions.—N. Y. Commercial.

The France tells some anecdotes of the principal orators in the French Chamber, which, if not true, are at least amusing. One day, it says, while M. Jules Favre was speaking, M. Rouher fell asleep. When the eloquent Radical leader ended his speech, M. Vuitry waked his colleague, telling him he must reply. "What did he talk about?" rejoined M. Rouher. M. Vuitry having described in a few words the subject of debate, M. Rouher ascended the tribune, and in a speech of three-quarters of an hour triumphantly demolished the arguments of his opponent. When he returned to his seat he laughingly reproached M. Vuitry for having waked him from the pleasantest nap he had enjoyed for a long time. The speeches of M. Berryer are also conceived on the spur of the moment, and he attaches so little value to them after they have been delivered that he never corrects the reports, as most of the members do. Once, on being urgently requested by the head of the reporters to revise an important speech which he had delivered that evening, he replied: "I read my own speeches! You might as well offer me soup, after coffee."

One of the important juveniles who visit the Continental Hotel and solicit pennies, was asked: "Where is your mother?" She answered diffidently, "She is dead." "Have you no father?" "Yes, sir, but he is sick." "What ails him?" continued the questioner. "He has got a sore finger, sir." "Indeed!" "Yes, sir." "Why don't he cut it off, then?" "Please, sir," responded the little maid, "he hasn't got any money to buy a knife."

Messrs. Clotworthy & Co.:
Gents:—The wonderful cures which have been made by your Poultryers' Friend cannot fail to interest all who raise poultry. A gentleman of this village has been experimenting on chickens with the gapes. He tried your Poultryers' Friend, according to the directions, and it had the desired effect in removing the worm, effectually relieving the chicken at once. Since then I have had many calls for it, and it has been used extensively with the same result. It is of incalculable value to all who raise poultry. Respectfully,

AVERY & DAVIDSON,

MEDICAL.
BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL,
ESTABLISHED AS A REFUGE FROM QUACKERY.
THE ONLY PLACE WHERE A CURE
CAN BE OBTAINED.

DR. JOHNSON has discovered the most Certain, Speedy, and only Effectual Remedy in the World for Weakness of the Back or Limbs, Stricture, Affection of the Kidneys or Bladder, Involuntary Discharges, Impotency, General Debility, Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Languor, Low Spirits, Confusion of Ideas, Palpitation of the Heart, Trembling, Dimness of Sight, or Giddiness, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose, or Skin, Affections of the Liver, Lungs, Stomach, or other organs. These Terrible Disorders arising from Physical Habits of Youth—secret and solitary practices more fatal to their victims than the song of Sirens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage, &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN,
Especially, who have become the victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of the Young Men of the most excellent talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entered listening Senators with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstasy the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

MARRIAGE.
Married Persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, being aware of Physical Weakness, Organic Debility, Deformities, speedily cured.

He who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS
Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This distressing affection, which renders life miserable and marriage impossible, is the penalty paid by the victims of impropriety. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by the use of improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both body and mind arise. The System becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions weakened. Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, and Wasting of the Frame, Consumption, Decay and Death.

DR. JOHNSON,
